Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Set up by the Council of Europe in 1959, the European Court of Human Rights sits at Strasbourg. The Council of Europe is an intergovernmental organisation founded in 1949 which aims to promote democracy, human rights and the rule of law, as well as to seek common solutions to political, social, cultural and legal problems faced by its 45 member states. The Council of Europe is currently organising a competitive examination for the recruitment of a (m/f)

Estonian Lawyer

for the Registry of the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg, France

You will be working in Strasbourg, under the authority of the Registrar of the European Court of Human Rights, and will be responsible for case files to be processed in English or French.

You are a national of a Council of Europe member state and have a university degree in law permitting access to the judicial administration or legal professions in Estonia. You have a thorough knowledge of constitutional and international law and professional experience acquired in the legal field (preferably in the judicial service) in Estonia or with international organisations.

You have an excellent knowledge of one of the Council of Europe's two official languages (English/French), preferably a good knowledge of the other language and a perfect command (mother tongue level) of Estonian.

You are aware of the international political context of the Council of Europe's work and values. You are able to draft legal texts clearly and concisely, have a sense of responsibility and organisation, and show discretion and the ability to work as one of a team in a multicultural environment.

Would you like to participate in the competitive examination? Then please submit the official application form available from the Council of Europe's recruitment website (<http://www.coe.int/jobs>) or detailed CV in English or French with nationality, date of birth, gender, postal and e-mail address, telephone number(s) and details of education and training, work experience and language skills.

Applications must quote reference 59/2003 (JUR) and reach us by 11 July 2003 at Human Resources Directorate (Recruitment Office), COUNCIL OF EUROPE, F-67075 STRASBOURG CEDEX, France.
